doubted his innocence."

My Uncle, who was at the bottom, a good hearted man, now truly desired the pardon of young Warner, and determined never to be positive again while he lived. More than this, and by way of making reparation as complete as possible, he would give him his daughter's hand in marriage, for he had her heart already.

Soon after this strange event, Warner married my cousin, Kate, Willoughby—but the other day, I heard him relating to a group of little ones around him, how their grandpa lost his wallet!

Gen. Cass said:—Believe that Gen. MR. WILLEY. We had the pleasure of hearing the speech of this distinguished gentleman at the Court House on aturday and we hesitate not to say that he made the most able and argumentative address which we have listened to for many years. He referred to the present position of the two parties and their platorms respectively, and then entered into an examination of the claims of the two candidates for the Presidency. Heldepicted in glowing terms the beneficial purposes to which the public lands to which Virginia is entitled, could be applied, if they were only ceded to their proper owners. He reviewed the past and the present condition of Virginia, referred to the dilapidated and helpless condition of her improvements, and drew a striking picture of the position she would occupy if her mighty resources were unlocked and market ways given to the riches of her hills. This was not now attainable as our taxes were high already and annually increasing. When he came to speak of the unlettered and untutored condition of many of the adult sons and daughters of Viginia unable to read even the "Word of Life," grown up in the squalidness of poverty and lap of ignorance, we confess that we felt, more than we would like to acknowledge, for her abject condition, compared with what she should be. But when he spoke of her glorious future, if she would but claim her rights in the vast unappropriated territory which was once all her own, which she had, with a magnanimity unsurpassed in the annuls of patriotism, ceded to the Union, as a "common fund for the common benefit of all the States, Virginia inclusive," when he drew the picture of her, as she might be, covered and studded over with the march of improvement sustained by the hand of science and universal education, diffusing to all the light of truth, reason and intelligence, we felt our heart revive again and hoped that Virginia would be again reinstated. He then, passed after examining into the tariff policy of the two parties; and ascertaining which was the British platform upon that question and reading the advocacy by the British press of Mr. Pierce, to the public characters of the candidates. He had nothing to say against Gen. Pierce as citizen and a gentleman. It was his public character that he had to do with and that only. Then he described the civil and military character of Scott and seldom have we heard the facts of his tory more elegantly clothed with the eloquence of truth. His description of Scott's triumphant march into Mexico was one of the most touching and elo quent specimens of oratory to which it has been our fortune to listen, but we shall not attempt to give an outline of it, as it had to be heard and not read, to be appreciated. When he described the manner in which Scott was torn from his high command after the taking of Mexico, when he showed how the long arm of Executive envy could reach even from Washington to Mexico and attempt to tear the unfading laurel from the brow of the gallant hero, how he was brought before a Court Martial of inferior officers to be tried on a charge preferred by by a subaltern, while that subaltern stood charged with higher offences and went untried even, and how after all, even when the accuser had his own packed jury, they could find nothing wrong in him and wholly failed to make good a single charge; and when, in the thrilling tones of manly feeling, he alluded to the great appeal which Gen. Scott had made from the judge and the accuser to the people, the upraised shouts of the assembled multitude told him plainly, that the sentiment of gratitude and outraged honor still lived and flourished in the American bosom. Mr. Willey said he had nothing to say in his own praise. Whatever he was he made himself by his own effort and the approval of a kind

Providence. He had known labor in all its forms and his sympathies were with the poor man. He asked a candid examination of his claims and a vote corresonding with the result of that examina-

on. If elected he would only promise to do hi duty, he could do no more. The speaker concluded amid the most rapturous and continued ap plause, showing that he had a place alike in the minds and the hearts of the people.

He is just the man the people want. "Honest, capable, fit," he comes plump up to the Jeffersonian standard, and defies the most searching examination. Then rally to his support, one and all. Whigs and Democrats alike, vote for the man who will be an honor to himself, to you, to the District, and to Virginia. We make no comparisons beapprove, Waitman T. Willey will be elected by the convictions of judgement, and the promptings them at some future time. What the liabilities of the heart are to be smothered, and stifled by the and a regard to the essential elements of a faithful public servant. Vote, one and all, for Waitman T. Willey, exclaiming as you vote, "An honest in the West. nan, is the noblest work of God."

Scott in the hour of Victory.

Upon the eventful day when Gen. Scott entered the City of Mexico he issued the following congratulations and injunctions to the gallant army under is command :

"Under the favor of God, the valor of the army, "Under the favor of God, the valor of the army, after many glorious victories, has hoisted the colors of our country in the capital of Mexico, and on the palace of its government. The honor of the army and the honor of our country call for the best behavior on the part of all. The valiant must, to obtain the approbation of God, and country, be sober, orderly and merciful. His noble brethren in arms will not be deaf to this appeal from their commander and friend." And on the evening of the same day he addressed the troops in this becoming language:

"The General-in-Chief calls upon his brethren shed and our countrymen filled with joy and admi-We look in vain over the pages of ancient or

Of the many laurels which decorate he brow of Winfield Scott, there is not one which will bloom longer or be more cherished by posterity than this which commemorize humanity moderating the spirit of victory.

When a colassal statue, which has been carved when a colossal statue, which has been carved out for a lofty position as the top of an elevated dome or a triumphal pillar, still lies upon the ground waiting the convenience of the architect to elevate it, it is amusing to hear the criticisms of those who come to canvass its merits. One thinks t has too large a head. One finds the mouth is too arge. One thinks the sword is too long, and the gight arm too large. One thinks it looks too stiff; inother that it is too clums; and another that it is another that it is too clumsy; and another that it is too large every way. But when the workmen have applied their tackle and Legin to leave, and the colossus begins to rise, the stiffness and clumsiness gradually disappear. The sword shortens up to a good serviceable length; the right arm is no stouter than it ought to be; the mouth contracts to a good talking size; and the great seams in the face show length; the right arm is no stouter than it ought to be; the mouth contracts to a good talking size; and the great seams in the face show length; the city in the city which a few years since could have been bought at \( \frac{1}{2} \) cent per foot is now selling from 10 to 14 cents.

Just so it is with Winfield Scott. Standing at the head of our victorious army, we have long known him as a colossal hero. Now, lifted up to the high position of a candidate for the Presidency, serving the size of life, the features tha seemed disproportionately large, are reduced to the natural size. As he still ascends, we grow enthu-siastic, and, only out of respect to the few bystanders who may not share our feelings, we choke down our spontaneous hurraing for Winfield Scott, our next President.

RETURNED TO DIE .- The Lowell Courier states that Mr. Thomas Jameson, an old and well known citizen of that city, who has been about two years in california, reached home on Friday morning ast, sick of the Isthmus fever, and died on Sunday night. He lost his trunk (containing, it is supposed. money and valuables to a considerable amount) on his way home. The work upon the West wing of the Patent office has been resumed, and will be rapidly pushed forward to completion. The centre of this immense building will still be occupied by the Patent Office. This office, and the National Institute attached to it, is generally the first place to which a visit is paid by strangers visiting the city. Among the many specimens of manufactured articles deposited in this Institute, none attracts more attention, than the beautiful glass vase manufactured and presented by your fellow townsmen, the Messers. Sweneys. The work upon the foundation of the "Jackson

Baltimore.
From the American.
There were local causes which operated to a very nsiderable extent in controlling the vote of Wedconsiderable extent in containing the voice wear nesday—causes wholly irrespective of national pol-ities, and unconnected with party distinctions. A great deal of excitement and of animated discussion revailed in this community last winter concerning Mr. Kerney's School Bill, and our adversaries con-trived to turn to Capt. France's disadvantage nuch of the feeling and interest connected with that subject.

It was also alleged against Capt. France, altho without foundation, that he had signed a memorial to Congress in favor of the Native American move-ment. This allegation was used against him; and as the contivers of the charge took care not to bring it out until the day before the election, the bring it out until the day before the election, the false imputation had circulation before a prompt denial, which was given in the morning papers of the next day, could operate as a corrective.

A majority of twelve or fifteen hundred, was pretty generally conceded to Mr. Hollius, on the general ground of the relative strength of the parties. Whig apathy, and the superior chances of success in a political contest which a party out of office possesses over a party in office. Beyond that majority, the increase, as indicated by the vote of Wednesday, must be put down to local causes.—
Our friends throughout the State, will be led into error, if they regard the result of the Mayorality error, if they regard the result of the Mayorality election in this city, on Wednesday last as any thing like a fair test of the Whig strength in Baltimore—far less as a test of Gen. Scott's strength in Baltimore. The election on the second of No-vember next, we venture to predict, will show two dollar notes, have determined to withdraw their own issues of these denominations. The Washington Republic says:

"Bank of the Union" notes are taken at twenty-five cents, and those on the "City Bank of Washington and "City Bank" of Washington a tory, with a brilliant glory circling his head, and the glow of patriotism warming his heart and min-gling its own sympathies with those of the ardent masses of the people, it will be seen how nobly those who triumphed in 1848, will march again to victory in 1852.

IRISH MOVEMENTS .— The movements of the Irish population from their native land to other countries is said to be going on at an increased rate.— The Clare Journal thus mourns over the exodus of the people—

All parties among us are seemingly turning their All parties among us are seemingly turning their faces to the far West—the home beyond the deep. Old, middle aged and young, are on the move, leaving the old country, where there seems to be no hope, for the young where hope is budding with the certainty, in their imagination, of bearing good fruit. It is really distressing to contemplate the changes that a few years will effect in Old Ireland if the desire for leaving that now agitates the people shall continue. Before this period of the year until the present, all idea of leaving for America was deferred until "spring returned again." The was deferred until "spring returned again." The season for emigrating closed at the beginning of our harvest, and the people neverthought of facing the wintry blast before the coming spring; but now spring, summer and autumn are alike. The streets spring, summer and autumn are alike. The streets are daily crowded by families on the move. It seems to them as if they had only to travel a hundred miles, instead of thousands. And why is this? and says:—The individual mentioned is doubtless Fredrick Nolke, (as he signs his name) who was convicted of larcency at the June term, 1850, of the Criminal Court of this district, and sentenced to the penitentiary for eighteen months, whence he was discharged on the 6th of January last. Soon after his release he professed to have several hundred dollars in his possession, which was doubtless true, and expressed his intention of returning to his home in the kingdom of Hanover.

The individual mentioned is doubtless, and sentenced to that which before induced them, and that is, their people are there before them. The old remembered faces that disappeared a few months since, are waiting with the blush of hope, to assist them to leap ashore on the land of their adoption, and to daughter that they never hoped to see on this side of the grave. This is now a great cause for the long continued stream of emigration. Yesterday, nearly the entire day, the street was crowded with nearly the entire day, the street was crowded with cars, waiting for families to complete their arrange-ments with the emigrating agent. They are gone, and the numbers are sufficient to leave a blank in the parish where they resided, that will not be ea-sily filled.

Whig maj., 1,037 114
Whig gain 923, as compared with the Governor's election of 1850, when Bigler, Democrat, had 8,465 majority. Remember these figures are from the Baltimore Sun, a neutral paper with a very strong Democratic bias.

What Whig will feel discouragement when he looks over such facts as these?

Will Irishmen Support British Policy? NEW YORK, September 6, 1852.

The returns continue to come in slowly; and as the majorities and votes are generally only reported, they do not make very safe data for calculation. The indications are that a full vote has not been polled, which always operates more to our disadvantage than our opponent's Our gains are, notwithstanding, very encouraging and show what we might have done with a better organization, and what we will do in the Presidential election, when we will be able to get our whole strength out with much less effort. In the thirty-four counties given below, we gain fifty-four hundred and thrty-two on the vote of last year. A like gain throughout the State will reduce the twenty-six thousand majority against us, last year, to almost or quite nothing. It is probable, however, that the gain will not be so large in the counties yet to come in, as they were not so well organized. Gen. Scott is many thousand stronger than our State ticket, as the result in November will very plainly show. We have no doubt that he will carry the State.

New Yoak, September 6, 1852.

To the Editors of the N. Y. Tribune:

I am an Irishman, though a naturalized citizen of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of in the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of the United States. I wish to say one word on politics. It is true that the leading English loans of Manchester, Birmingham and other manufacturing English towns? If so, my vote is decided for Scott. Loving my fatherland, whose life-blood has beer. trampled out by the English town of Mancheste is many thousand stronger than our State ticket, as the result in November will very plainty show. In the state then, by a decided majority.

We have not included, in our calculation, the vote of this county, because we have wished to make it as fair as possible. Had we done so, the aggregate of gain on our side would have been increased nineteen hundred or two thousand votes, Yours, &c., JOHN MeDERMOT.

Yours, &c.,

The Proof.

IT The triumph of the candidate of the Democratic party, brought forward by the men of the South, will secure, probably forever, the ascendancy of liberal commercial principles; and if Lord Derby, should be, next year, disposed to take the American tariff for his model, we have little doubt that it will serve to reprove the lost illusions of the that it will serve to remove the last illusions of the protective system from his mind. In this repect, and on this point, we take Gen. Pierce to be a fair representative of the opinions of Mr. Calhoun and, as such, a valuable practical ally to the commercial policy of this country,—London Times, July 6.

grWe are without information as to the views of Gen. Pierce on the subject of co-operation with England; but we cannot say that we feel any apprehension on the point, and we shall await the final election not without share in the confidence of many friends that it will result well.—London Tr The election of Gen. Pierce will, at any rate prove that the Democratic majority, whatever may be their differences, are unanimous in their testimo-ny on behalf of a liberal commercial policy; and any Government he may form will be one on which this country may rely for effectual co-operation in reducing, wherever practicable, existing impediments to international intercourse.—Manchester "The two parties of the Republic, Whig and Democrat—that is, Conservative and Progressive, Protectionist and Free Trade—appear to have marshalled their forces, and selected their candidates for the coming election. ### The Only True Portrait of Washington. Just Published, T. B. Welch's Magnificent Portrait of Washington!

Portrait of Washington!

Engraved (by permission) from Stuart's only original portrait, in the Atheneum, Hoston

This superb picture, engraved under the superintendance of Thomas Sully, Esq., the eminent and highly gitted artist, is the only correct likeness of Washington ever published. It has been characterized as the greatest work of art ever produced in this country. As to its fidelity, we refer to the letters of the adopted son of Washington, George Washington Park Custis, who says, "it is a faithful representation of the celebrated original," and to Chief Justice Taney of the Supreme Court of the United States, who says, "As a work of art its excellence and beauty must strike overy one who see at; and it is no less happy in its likeness to the Father of his country. It was my good fortune to have seen him in the days of my boyhood and his whole appearance is yet strongly impressed on my memory. The portrait you have issued appears to me to be one exact likeness, representing perfectly the expression as well as the form and features of the face." And says Senion 14 in the same presentation of the great original." President Fillmore says, "the work appears to me to be hear admirably executed and eminently worthy of the patronage of the public." Says Marchant, the emmeht portrait painter, and the pupil of Stuart, "your print, to my mind is more remarkable than any other 1 have seen, for presenting the whole individuality of the original portrait, together with the noble and dignified repose of air and manner, which all who ever saw him considered a marked characteristic of the illustrious man it commemorates."

USF for the great merits of this picture we should referevery lover of Washington to the portrait itself, to be seen at the office of this paper, and to the lefters of the following Artists, Statesmen, Jurists and Scholars accompanying it.

Aktists.—His Recellency Millard Fillmore, Hon. G. Dallas, Hon. Wm R. King, Hon. Baniel Wabster, Hon.

ing, of Boston; Charles Fraser, of Charleston, S. C., and to the adopted son of Washington, Hou Geo. W. P. Custis, himself an artist.

Statesmen.—His Excellency Millard Fillmore, Hon. G. M. Dallas, Hon. Wm. R. King, Hon. Daniel Wobster, Hon. Lynn Boyd, Hon. Lewis Cass, Hon. Wm. A. Graham, Hon. John P. Kennedy, Hon. Robert Winthrop, Ll. D. Jouists.—Hon. Roger B. Taney, Hon. John McLean, Hon. Rufus Choate.

SCHOLARS.—Charles Folson, Esq., the well known Librarian of the Boston Athenium, who says, "I wou'd rather own it than any painted copy I have ever seen." Richard Hildreth, Edward Everett, El. D., Jared Sparks, Ll. D., Wm. H. Prescott, Esq., Washington Irving; Ralph Emerson, Esq. Frof. T. C. Upham, J. T. Heafley, Ffix Green Halleck, H. W. Longfellow, Wm. Gilmore Simms, &c., &c., The Press throughout the entire Union, have with one voice proclaimed the merits of this superb engraving.

To enable all to possess this valuable treasure, it is sold at the low price of $5 per copy.
